I'VE GOT ALADDIN AND HIS WONDERFUL LAMP SKINNED TO DEATH

The Chicago Sunday Tribune.

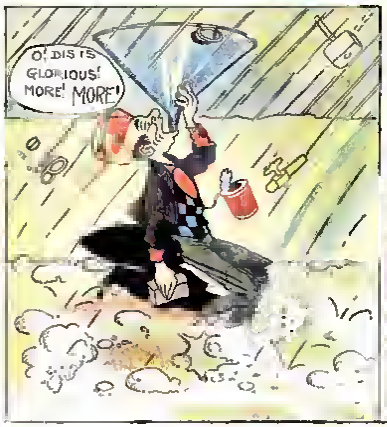
COMIC SUPPLEMENT. JANUARY 5, 1902

BUGWIZER BREWING CO.

Languid Leary and his wonderful Tomato Can

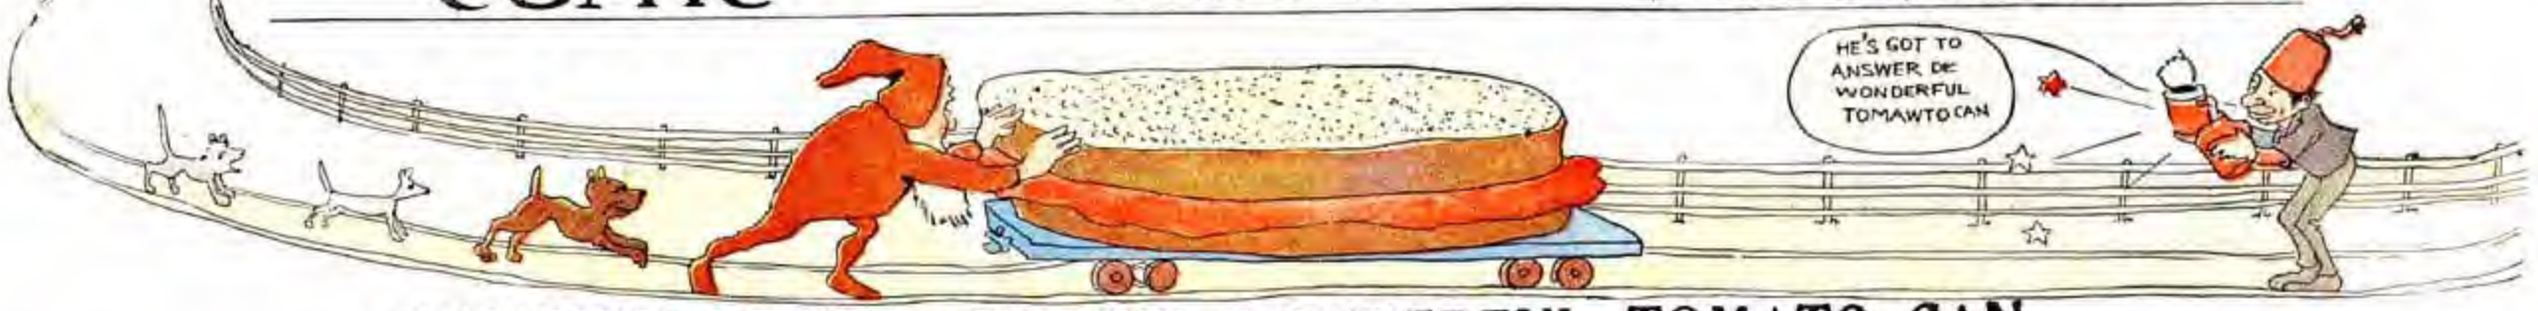
TURN ON THE BEER

THE BEER THAT MAKE SUBURBANITES FAMOUS

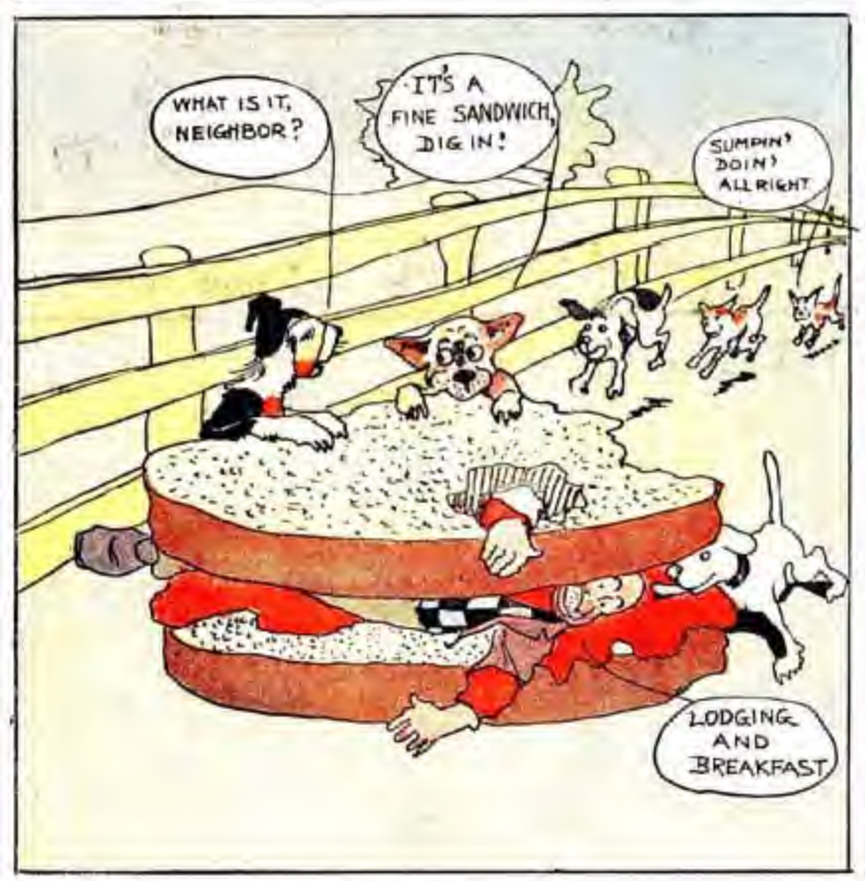


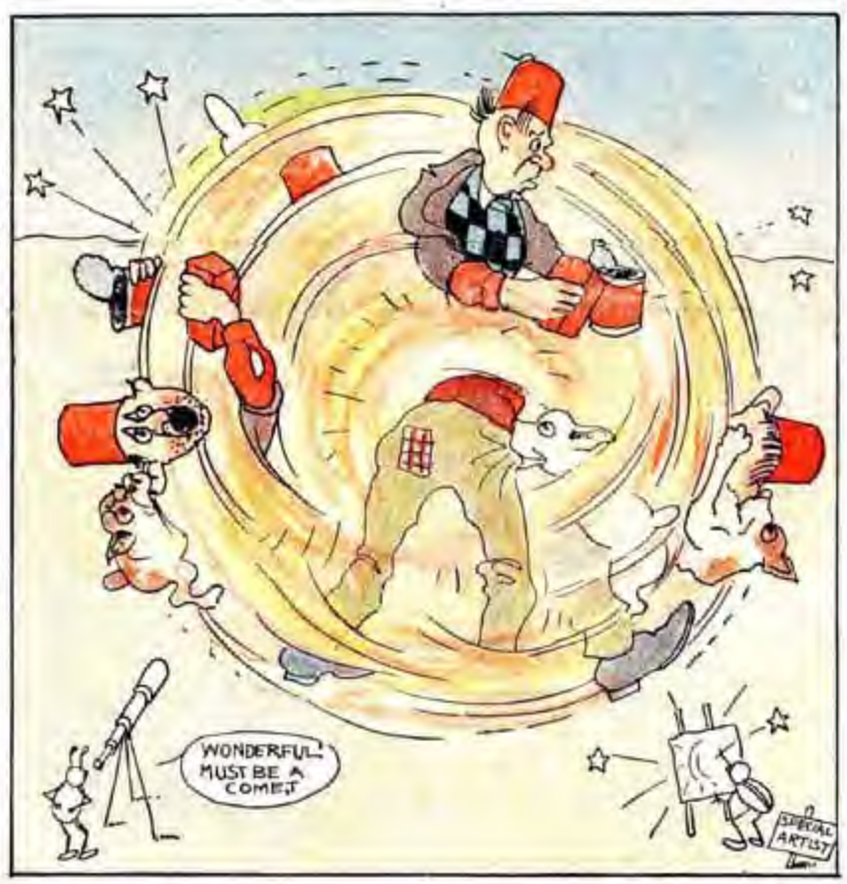
The Chicago Sunday Tribune

COMIC SUPPLEMENT. JANUARY 12, 1902.



LANGUID LEARY AND HIS WONDERFUL TOMATO CAN.

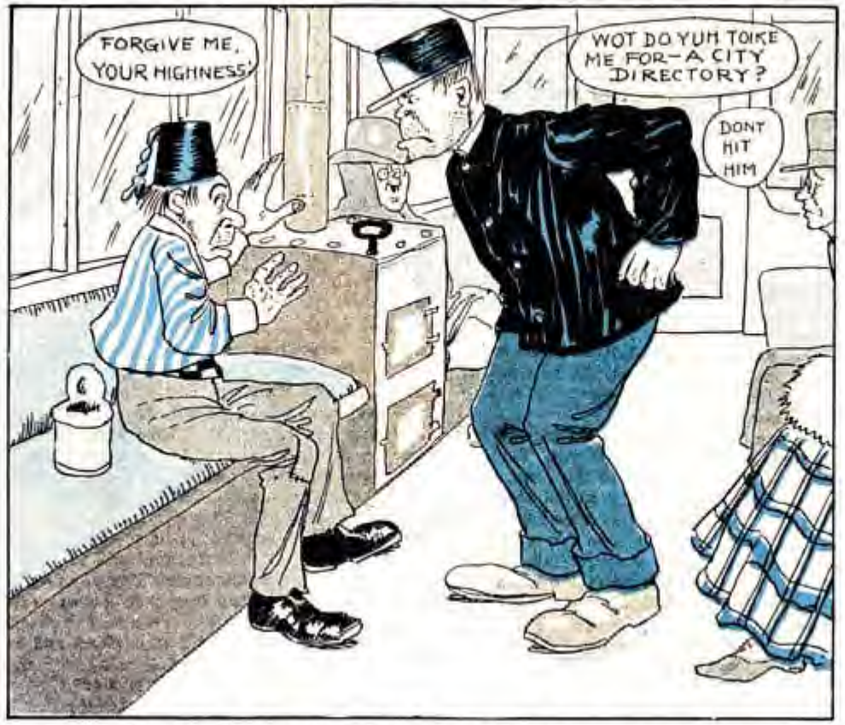




I GUESS I'LL CALL ME LITTLE GNOME.

LANGUID LEARY TAKES A RIDE ON A NORTH SIDE CABLE CAR.

Languid Leary arrives in Chicago He hails a Clybourn avenue cable car and goes to visit his uncle, who lives on North avenue



He asks the conductor to tell him when North avenue is reached. The conductor gives him the usual treatment accorded to passengers.

Leary feels cold, stove is out, and passengers are freezing to death. Conductor has just finished beating old man.

When the cable breaks Leary decides to test the virtues of the wonderful Tomato Can.

Gnome appears and tells Leary that he has no power over North Side cable cars; cannot perform miracles. Gnome and Leary are beaten.

Leary at last reaches his destination, only to find that his uncle had been frozen to death the day before while riding in North Side cable car.